PARSHA OUTLINE BY CANTOR VOGEL

BEHAR - BECHUKOTAI

1. Laws of the Shemittah (Sabbatical) year (compare the cycle to the weekly Shabbat).
2. Laws of the Yovel (Jubilee), 50th year (compare the cycle to Sefirat Haomer followed by Shavuot)
3. Laws of redeeming sold (leased) inheritance land, houses, and the land of the Levi'im, before the Yovel year.
4. Laws of tzedakah and compassion for the poor who are forced to sell (lease) their land.
5. Compassion for the poor who are forced to sell themselves into servitude to a Jew or to a non-Jew.
6. Warnings against idol worship, about observance of the Shabbat and the holiness and respect for the Temple.
7. The blessings that will accrue to the people Israel if we follow the Torah and keep the mitzvot.
8. The punishments that will befall us if we don't follow the Torah and mitzvot.
9. A message of consolation and forgiveness if we repent.
10. A concluding statement to the laws that were the focus of Sefer Vayikra.
11. Various laws that come into effect when a person makes a dedication to the Temple.
12. A closing statement to the entire Sefer Vayikra.

HAFTORAH

The Haftorah emphasizes the message of the blessings and the curses in today's parsha. Jeremiah, the prophet, speaks of the blessings that come to a person who places his belief and trust in G-d. Such a person is compared to a tree planted by a river that never wants for water. Conversely, a person who places his trust in man, is cursed, and compared to a tree planted in the desert that always wants for water and is always in danger of dying from drought.

Trump Withdraws U.S. From Iran Accord

The U.S. is exiting the Iranian nuclear accord, President Donald Trump said Tuesday, dismantling his predecessor's most prominent foreign-policy initiative and bucking the appeals of some of America's closest allies. Speaking in the Diplomatic Room of the White House, Mr. Trump delivered harsh words about the 2015 deal to curb and monitor Iran's nuclear activity, calling it "horrible," "one-sided" and "disastrous." According to The Wall Street Journal, the president said he planned to institute sanctions against Iran, and said the U.S. would sanction any nation that helps Tehran pursue nuclear weapons, as well as U.S. and foreign companies and banks that continue to do business with the country. After an 11-minute televised speech explaining his decision, Mr. Trump sat down at a desk and signed an order withdrawing the U.S. from the pact as Vice President Mike Pence, Treasury Secretary Steven Mnuchin and national security adviser John Bolton looked on from across the room. Trump Administration officials said the Iran sanctions suspended under the agreement snapped back into effect, meaning any new contracts and financial deals are banned. They said businesses and banks have either 90 or 180 days to wind down existing ties, depending on the particular type of transaction.
